

Bananaquit

Scientific name: Coereba flaveola

Bananaquits are also known as Yellow-breasts in Montserrat. They use their curved beaks to feed on nectar. This can help pollinate flowers. They also peck through the side of flowers to get their nectar. This doesn't benefit the plant, and is called 'nectar robbing'. Bananaquits also eat fruit and small insects.

