

Caribbean Hermit Crab

Scientific name: Coenobita clypeatus

Hermit crabs are a kind of crustacean. They live in the shells of dead molluscs like sea snails. These shells help protect them from predators. As hermit crabs grow, they have to move out of their old shells, into new, bigger ones.

